

The operating pipeline

Every path the system can take in a session: the scheduler waking itself, discovery, market data, the three books running their own gate stacks in parallel, the single approval spine they all funnel through, and the firewall work that closes the day. Nothing here waits for a human.

01 · THE LOOP WAKES ITSELF

02 · 09:15 DISCOVER — ALPACA-NATIVE, NO SCRAPER

03 · MARKET CONTEXT — PER SYMBOL, THREADED, 190 REQ/MIN CEILING

04 · THREE BOOKS, THREE GATE STACKS, RUN IN PARALLEL — EACH GATE IS HARD

A refusal is an artefact, not a dead end. On the intraday book the spread gate is expected to dominate — that is the finding, not a bug.

05 · ONE APPROVAL SPINE — EVERY BOOK FUNNELS THROUGH IT

06 · MANAGEMENT — EACH POSITION IS ROUTED BACK TO THE STRATEGY THAT OPENED IT

07 · CLOSING THE DAY — LIQUIDATION IS CONFIRMED, NOT REQUESTED
